Research Focus

Dr. Sara Santilli is an Assistant Developmental and Educational Psychology Professor at the University of Padova, Department of Philosophy, Sociology, Education and Applied Psychology (FISPPA). Her work centres on inclusive education, disability studies, and career counseling through the lens of equity, human rights, and sustainability. Her research investigates social and contextual barriers to the inclusion of people with disabilities and vulnerabilities in school and work settings. She develops tools and programs that promote inclusive practices and support the life design and career development of individuals from marginalized backgrounds.

Key areas of interest:

- School and workplace inclusion of people with disabilities and vulnerabilities
- Contextual factors affecting inclusive practices
- Career development across the life span through Life Design and positive psychology
- Socio-economic influences on future orientation and life satisfaction
- Design and evaluation of inclusive, sustainable interventions for educators, youth, and communities
